J-1 physicians train and serve in high numbers in primary-care specialties, including Internal Medicine, Pediatrics, and Family Medicine. This means that J-1 physicians are frequently among our frontline providers.

Each year, thousands of foreign national physicians train in J-1 visa status in the United States, where they represent an increasingly significant proportion of the trainees on our health care teams. The number of J-1 physicians training and serving patients in U.S. teaching hospitals has increased 58% over the past decade.

ECFMG® J-1 Visa Sponsorship, 2023
Essential to U.S. Health Care

More than 14,600 physicians in residency and fellowship programs
From about 150 different countries of origin
Serving patients at more than 750 teaching hospitals across the nation

Number of J-1 Physicians Sponsored

States with Highest Number of J-1s
J-1 physicians train across the nation in 48 states, plus the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Specialties Pursued by J-1 Physicians
J-1 physicians train and serve in high numbers in primary-care specialties, including Internal Medicine, Pediatrics, and Family Medicine. This means that J-1 physicians are frequently among our frontline providers.